SENT TO THE SENATE,

But No Action Has Yet Been Taken on It.

MILLS BILL READY FOR DISSECTION.

Republicans Have Too Small a Majority to Rush Representatives Asking Leave of Absence.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Special.]—The Mills tariff bill was reported to the senate Saturday afternoon and referred to the committee on finance. It is understood that the democratic members will ask to have it taken up in committee and considered section by section, but the republicans will not entertain this request and the bill will lie pigeon hole.

In the meantime the sub-committee on finance is going ahead, which may not be ready for a report to the full committee under two weeks, as the republicans naturally encountered difficulties in framing a bill as the democrats did.

There are differences of opinion among them, which, owing to their small majority in the senate, must be harmonized to enable them to pass a measure.

The New York World today prints a column devoted to the sensational story from here to the effect that Samuel J. Randall is going to die with cancer of the stomach. The story is not based on any statement from his or other physicians, but is wholly made up of the imagination of the World's sensational correspondent here. There is not the slightest foundation for the sensation.

Drs. Miller and Lincoln, Mr. Randall's physicians, were seen tonight by THE CONSTITUTION correspondent, who characterized the story as false, absurd and of the most vicious kind and nature.

THE CONSTITUTION's correspondent called at Mr. Randall's home, where he found him sitting up and gaining strength considerably, and will in a few days go to the Pennsylvania mountains. He was much and felt outraged at the action of the World in printing the lie, as he termed it. It naturally caused much pain in his family, who read the sensation with sorrow and sadness, though they knew it was a lie.

Senator Brown leaves for New York tomorrow to attend a meeting of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association.

Mr. Chandler has gone home for a week. Judge Stewart will also go in a few days.

DEBATING THE TREATY.

Senator Davis Speaks in Opposition to It—The Bayard Interview.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—In the senate Mr. Davis moved to proceed to the consideration of the Fisheries Treaty in open executive session, and of the resolution offered by Mr. Morgan in relation thereto. A discussion arose as to whether Mr. Morgan's resolution was an executive or a legislative proposition; the presiding officer expressing the opinion that it was pending in executive session.

Mr. Davis then moved to the consideration of the resolution, which was agreed to. Mr. Davis then moved to the consideration of the resolution, which was agreed to.

CHARGE OF INTIMIDATION

Of the Negroes at the Jackson, Miss., Election.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Senator Wilson, of Iowa, today submitted to the senate the majority report of the Judiciary committee on the Jackson, Miss., election case.

Two subjects, the committee says, were submitted for inquiry; first, the alleged suppression of the votes of colored citizens of Jackson, Miss., at the recent municipal election in Jackson; and second, the alleged participation in such suppression by the United States district attorney and by the deputy collector of internal revenue and deputy United States marshal.

The conclusions of the committee, the report says, in respect of two subjects committed to it for investigation, are affirmative in both branches of the inquiry. There was suppression of the votes of colored citizens at the recent municipal election of Jackson, Miss. The suppression was not partial but total. No colored citizen voted at said election.

This was exceptional. For years the colored voters of Jackson had voted without obstruction. This is an admitted fact. There is nothing in all the testimony taken by the committee that tends to controvert it.

The report sketches the improvement in the condition of local affairs in Jackson during the fourteen years Mayor McGill's administration, a debt of $80,000 being wiped out, taxation being reduced from twenty-two mills to ten mills, the streets having been graded and lighted, and affairs, generally, having assumed a much more inviting aspect.

One question independent of the new law enactment was started to nominate a candidate in opposition to Mr. McGill.

The alleged cause of the movement, the report says, was the discovery of a conspiracy on the evening of December 24th, 1887, in which a white man and negro were killed.

The result was the organization of a white league whose first act was the promulgation of the manifesto declaring: "In awful earnestness and in the name of the great God of our country should must and shall be wiped out—cost what it may." Attached to subsequent issues of the white league, with other agencies, were the names of Deputy United States Marshal and Deputy Marshal Livingston.

One of these issues embodied the resolution: "That the chairman of this meeting appoint a committee of one hundred to see that the ticket is carried."

The chairman of the meeting, the report says, was J. B. Harris, then United States district attorney, and in the pursuit of the movement, the committee of one hundred, to secure the election of a city council, was organized.

WASN'T PARTICULAR,

But Shot Them Down as They Came.

A DESPERADO WITH A SHOTGUN.

People Called to Their Doors and Murdered—Capture of the Fiend While Asleep in the Woods.

MONTEGOMERY, Ala., July 23.—[Special.]—A special to the Advertiser from Mobile says: The Lanaber, a notorious character, while on a protracted drunk some days ago, declared he would shoot everybody he met, so aiming himself with a double-barreled shotgun and a couple of pistols, he started out Saturday on his homicidal mission.

After going a short distance, he shot a negro dead. A little further on he went to J. D. Heale's house, and calling him out, shot him down in his door. Pursuing his journey, he came upon a negro, and also gave him a dose of cold lead.

He then lay down by the roadside and went to sleep, and a crowd of citizens and officers, who had heard of his crimes, took him and lodged him in jail at Mobile.

A special from Montgomery from Montgomery, Ala., says: Levi Lolly, a respectable white farmer, was called to his door Saturday night by two white men and a negro who asked the way to a village not far distant. Lolly was answering the negro, who asked his first and fired two shots at the man, the taking effect in his right side, and from the effect of which he died today. No clue to the murderers.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS.

Two Young Men Caught With the Implements of Their nefarious Business.

PITTSBURGH, July 23.—Two dangerous counterfeiters were arrested this afternoon while attempting to swindle an old man. The counterfeiters, who were caught with the implements of their nefarious business, were arrested while attempting to swindle an old man.

Heated Discussion in Parliament Over the Proposed Inquiry—Pertinent Questions Propounded.

LONDON, July 23.—In the house of commons today Philip Stanhope called the attention of the government to the threatening language used by the crown counsel before the coroner at Mitchellstown, and to his charging the court with preventing the inquiry in the Mitchellstown case. Mr. Stanhope asked whether the counsel acted so in pursuance of instructions from Dublin castle, and whether the government would order the counsel to assume a more respectful attitude toward the coroner.

Mr. Hafford replied that he had no information on the subject, but he believed the crown counsel did not need instructions either from himself or from Mr. Stanhope. [Laughter and cheers.]

In reply to Mr. Clancy, Mr. Balfour said he had asked the home office that the highest and most experienced officers in the department be sent to Ireland to inspect the condition and management of the prisoners. One of those sent was Mr. Barr.

Mr. Barry asked if it was true that Mr. Dillon had been brought before Dr. Barr or Dundall's jail for examination, but refused to submit unless he knew whose agent Dr. Barr was.

Mr. Balfour moved the second reading of the bill dealing with charges against members of parliament. He said the government offered the commission of inquiry upon precedents. He considered that a commission with less authority must fail to do justice to the persons concerned. The government would bring justice to the accused if they give them a chance to clear themselves. He had confidence in the tribunal. It rested with the house to say how complete the powers of the commission ought to be.

Mr. Parnell said he was glad Mr. Smith admitted it rested with the house what the powers of the commission ought to be. It seemed to him that the government was not going to inquire not only into his personal conduct but into the acts of the league in America, Ireland and Great Britain. It was evident that the charges against the league were going to break down. He demanded the government to put the scope of the commission wide Mr. Smith's original proposal, namely, his charges against himself and other Irish members.

IS IT MANIA?

A Man Who Imagines He is the Victim of An Electric Current.

He Calls Upon the Governor to Get Him to Prevent the Bursting of An Air Vault—A Queer Story.

He was a slender, sallow faced man of about thirty, poorly dressed, and with a queer expression about his eyes.

His manner was quiet and his conversation low and earnest as he sat in the ante-room at the executive apartment.

"I want to see the governor," he said. "I have something very important to tell him—something that the people of Atlanta don't understand."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, just this: At Bridge bay woods, in Florida, there is a battery—an electric battery—connected with the city of Atlanta."

FOR RENT.

A Real Estate Agent's Theory as to Why One of His Houses is Vacant.

"Do you see that house over there?" said a real estate agent to his friend, as they were walking down one of Atlanta's most desirable residence streets. He pointed his cane in the direction of the house he referred to, and stepping squarely in front of it, on the opposite of the street, continued:

"You see it has a 'for-rent' card on it now. Well, that house is certainly unfortunate. I have been 'for-rent' at least eight different times within the past two years."

"What is the matter with it?" asked his friend.

"There is nothing the matter with the house itself. It is well built, and the rooms are all large and well arranged. It is convenient to business, and the rent is at a reasonable figure; but the location is bad."

His friend remarked that he thought that portion of the city very desirable for residence purposes.

"Oh, it isn't that at all. It is the peculiarity about the house. I'll tell you. You see that gallery running the full length of the house in front? And then notice that the house is built almost on the line of the street. There are no trees in front of it, you see, and to make the matter worse you see there is that street lamp on the opposite corner. You see all these things conspire to keep it vacant. My only hope for a permanent tenant is to get a family where there are no marriageable young ladies."

The trouble is due to that lamp and the lack of shade. No young lady wishes to entertain her gentlemen friends on a gallery situated as this is. And every family that has occupied the house in the past two years has had from one to four young society ladies. They don't give this as a reason for leaving the house, of course, but that is very true about it. I'll have to wait until those trees grow, I guess."

HE WAS JAILED.

Edward White Arrested in Whitefield for Violation of the Postal Laws.

Edward White is in limbo.

The cause of this springs from the fact that White developed a habit of reading long letters addressed to other people.

It seems that White called at the postoffice in Dalton, Ga., for a letter which was directed to S. P. Pullin. White was not authorized to get this letter. It is thought that he took the letter, which was a love epistle by the way, read it, and then burned it.

He was suspected of the crime, and was arrested by Mr. W. L. M. Tinsley. He made a confession of the crime, and was committed to jail.

White was taken before Commissioner Herndon, at Dalton, who, in default of a $300 bond, committed him to Fulton county jail.

Mr. Tinsley turned the prisoner over to Jailor Pelt yesterday afternoon.

RAILROAD GOSSIP

That Will Interest Railroad Men and Travelers.

Meeting of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association in New York Tomorrow—Brief Mention.

The Southern Passenger and Steamship Association will meet in New York tomorrow and several prominent railroad men will be in attendance from Atlanta. This meeting is a very important one, as the further continuance of the association will be determined upon.

There is hardly a doubt that it will be again organized, as it affords the means for the adjustment of rates and settlement of disputed matters that could be provided as well in no other form.

The location of the headquarters will also be decided upon, and in this matter Atlanta is considerably interested, as a removal of the association's offices would necessitate the removal of several of our best citizens. The chances are all in favor of Atlanta remaining the headquarters of the association, as the majority of the votes which will settle that matter are certain to be favorable to this city.

The Official Guide for June says that the fastest train now on the time tables is two on the Baltimore and Ohio, which are timed to run the 40 miles from Washington to Baltimore in 4 1/2 hours, without stops, making the rate of speed 53 1/3 miles an hour.

It is stated, however, that these trains rarely succeed in making the trip in the time allowed. No other train can be found which makes over 40 miles an hour, and the nearest approach to it is a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, which runs from Jersey City to Philadelphia, making one stop, at an average speed of 43 1/3 miles an hour.

On the opposition—the Round Brook—there are two trains which make the 40 miles from Jersey City to Philadelphia at the rate of 43 1/3 miles an hour, without stops, making the rate of speed 53 1/3 miles an hour. The fastest train between Philadelphia and Baltimore runs at the rate of 43 1/3 miles an hour.

The fastest long-distance train on the Chesapeake and Ohio Limited, on the New York Central and Hudson River, which averages 41 1/3 miles an hour from New York to Albany, and 40 1/3 miles from Albany to Buffalo. The corresponding train on the Pennsylvania Railroad runs at the rate of 38 miles an hour from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh.

The lowest passenger train is not easy to determine, but it is believed that a train on the Chesapeake and Ohio Limited, which takes nine hours to run 100 miles—an average of 11 1/3 miles an hour—is a very promising candidate for the honor.

The Georgia Railroad Rates.

Errors Overlooked: You cause of Saturday, speaking of the arrangements made for rates to the Chattanooga on Wednesday and Thursday, 24th and 25th inst., you single out the Georgia railroad as the only one in the state which has declined to give a rate of one cent per mile for those days.

I thought I had fully explained our position. In this matter, it is not the Georgia railroad, but the Georgia Railroad Company, which is the one that has declined to give a rate of one cent per mile for those days.

On account of the long extensions on 24th, 25th and 26th, which will make all our passenger equipments, ready, that we cannot run the special excursion on 24th and 25th inst., but will arrange to run one the following week.

In this connection, it is desired to state that the Georgia railroad was the first one in the state of Georgia to advance the rate of one cent per mile for those days, and it is very much regretted that they should have been singled out as the only one declining to do so.

To Travelers.

The excursion to Tybee, given under the auspices of the Georgia Railroad, will take place today. The train will leave at 8 a. m. and will arrive at Tybee at 12 p. m. The excursion is very favorable, and is taken advantage of by those who have friends in that portion of the state.

There are several prospects on the list, but they will probably come back with a better opinion of Georgia than ever.

Travel was light yesterday. The excursionists who had been out of town for Sunday pleasure and recreation returned in large numbers, but the outgoing traffic was very light.

The baggage men reported that the amount of work in their department, and this would indicate that people who travel when the road is on are short on trucks.

Death of General Whigham.

Richmond, July 23.—General W. S. C. Whigham, second vice-president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway company, died very suddenly at his office in this city at 12:35 p. m. today.

He was hale, hearty and vigorous until 1 o'clock today, when he was suddenly taken ill and fell down on a lounge and in less than twenty-five minutes was dead. The doctors attribute his sudden demise to heart disease.

General Whigham was born in 1821, was in the Virginia service before and after the war. He was successively captain and colonel of the Fourth Virginia cavalry and later became lieutenant-general in the cavalry arm of the Confederate army.

In 1863 he was elected to the Confederate senate, in which body he served until the close of the war. Subsequently he became president of the Virginia Central railroad, and vice-president of the Chesapeake and Ohio, into which the former road was merged. At the time of his death he was a member of the Virginia state senate.

All Right Once More.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 23.—Pittsburg has railroad communication with Wheeling again, the first time since the great storm. The Pan Handle road was opened this morning, and trains left Pittsburg for that place at the usual time.

The company had a large force of men at work day and night since the storm, and while the road was closed, a large amount of work yet remains to be done before the road can be opened to the usual service.

It will be as good as it was previous to the storm. The Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio are running a mile or two beyond west Alexander, but it will be two or three days before they will be able to reach Wheeling and return to service.

There are several prospects on the list, but they will probably come back with a better opinion of Georgia than ever.

BRUNSWICK'S BOOM.

Very Large Increase in the Value of Returns Over Last Year.

It is believed, and the Comptroller-General Wright yesterday, "that Brunswick will some day be one of the largest cities in the south."

Why? "Well, I received a letter this afternoon stating that the digest of Glynn county, in which Brunswick is located, shows an increase of $740,000 over last year. The increase in that county the past two years will foot up something over $1,500,000. The great bulk of this increase is from the tremendous growth of the city of Brunswick. For the past year Glynn county shows a larger proportional increase than any county in the state."

The digest from twenty-one counties have been received up to yesterday. They show a net increase of $1,500,000. This does not include Glynn, the digest from which county will come in today, and swell the net increase in twenty-two counties to nearly $2,000,000 over last year.
